Creating a more sustainable energy supply – Commissioning of the new photovoltaic system

A new photovoltaic system has been commissioned at the agaSAAT site in Neukirchen-Vlyun. It currently covers around 80% of the production site's daily energy needs. Through the continuous direct and effective utilisation of solar power, we have been able to significantly reduce our reliance on energy supplies from external sources. The solar power produced forms the basis for the further, sustainable energy supply at the site.

In the future, it will also be possible to store additional power generated by the photovoltaic system at the new site in Rheurdt-Schaephuysen so that the energy needed for production can come entirely from the solar power generated and stored on site.

agaSAAT GmbH

As a company now run by the second generation of the same family, agaSAAT GmbH has stood for high-quality baking, sprouting and spice seeds for over 30 years.

Over the past few years, the investments made and expansion of the processing capacities have led to agaSAAT GmbH becoming THE experts when it comes to seeds.

With our extensive range of services and products, we serve the food industry, wholesalers and bakers, confectionery shops and food retailers across Europe. And our customer base is now just as varied as the products and services that we offer.

“Our decades of experience in international seed and spice trading have helped us to become experts in this area”, explains founder Werner Arts, who is still involved in the day-to-day operation of the business and manages its further development together with his son.
