Proven quality in the long term: DLG Award for agaSAAT from Neukirchen-Vluyn

DLG awards the "Prize for Longstanding Product Quality" – The company consistently performs well in DLG quality tests (DLG)

Neukirchen-Vluyn, April 2026

agaSAAT GmbH, based in Neukirchen-Vluyn, has now been awarded the "Prize for Longstanding Product Quality" for the fifth time by the DLG (German Agricultural Society) Food Testing Centre. This company award recognises a longstanding commitment to quality, and is only awarded provided the food products have been tested regularly and successfully by the DLG for at least five years. For many years now, companies in the food industry have been having their products voluntarily tested by DLG experts. The DLG awards the 'Prize for Longstanding Product Quality' in order to encourage this commitment to quality. "The award winners are showing that their quality strategy marks a clear commitment to consistent quality assurance and continuous improvement", emphasises Freya von Czettritz, Managing Director of DLG Holding GmbH. Companies must take part in the DLG Food Testing Centre's product-specific international quality tests for five consecutive years and receive at least three awards in each award year. From the fifth consecutive year of successful participation, the company has been awarded the 'Long-standing Product Quality Award'. This means that agaSAAT GmbH is underlining its quality strategy as a clear commitment to continuously safeguarding and sustainably increasing productivity.

Consistent commitment to quality rewarded

Ever since it was founded 30 years ago, the family-run business agaSAAT based in the Lower Rhine region has been committed to rigorous quality controls for baking, sprouting and spice seeds. Quality assessment begins right from the source of the seeds, whether they are grown locally, under EU contract or imported directly from other continents. In addition to strict laboratory controls, the high quality of these products – which have been tested and awarded prizes by the DLG for many years – is also ensured thanks to modern production facilities and technical expertise when it comes to the processing of raw materials.

About agaSAAT GmbH

A family-run company founded in 1992, agaSAAT GmbH specialises in the import, contract growing, processing and international sale of high-quality baking, sprouting and spice seeds. From pumpkin seeds from the Lower Rhine and sesame seeds from Africa, to blue poppy and linseed from European contract farms, the wide range of organic and conventionally grown produce that they offer enables the Lower Rhine-based company to supply the entire food sector, from artisans to industrial processors. Strict quality checks and modern production technology for fine cleaning, colour sorting, microbial reduction or pressurised CO_2 disinfestation guarantee the high quality of the processed raw materials.
